131	The Fireplace, Vitré (undescribed)

A French peasant, in his big felt hat and sabots, sits in profile to left, and looks at the spectator, behind him is a big open fireplace with a mantel-shelf at the top, on which, to right, are pots and jars (Lent by T. Way, Esq.)

H. 7, W. $6\frac{3}{4}$

132 The Model, dancing (undescribed)

A nearly nude figure of a girl is seen, full face, dancing, with both arms extended, waving gauzy, floating drapery about her. Butterfly signature to left (Lent by Dr. E. Tait)

H. 7, W. 5

133 A Lady in a Big Chair (undescribed)

A lady in 1860 costume, sits sideways in a big arm-chair. Her crossed legs are resting on one arm of the chair. She regards the spectator, the raised forefinger of her right hand upon her lips. This drawing is partially in line and lithotint. Butterfly signature to the right. This is evidently an early work (Lent by T. Way, Esq.)

H. $9\frac{1}{4}$, W. $7\frac{1}{2}$

134 Garden of the Rue du Bac, No. 1 (undescribed)

The drawing has been made from within the doorway of the artist's house, looking out upon the garden. A curtain falls on the left. On the right is an elaborate trellis work with a birdcage at the top; at the bottom are flower-pots.

Steps descend to the garden where a man, stooping, cuts grass with a sickle
(Lent by T. Way, Esq.)

H. 9, W. $6\frac{1}{2}$

135 Mother and Child, No. 3 (undescribed)

A mother in light drapery, wearing a cap, sits upon a sofa and plays with her infant lying nude on the couch to her left (Lent by T. Way, Esq.)

H. $5\frac{1}{4}$, W. $9\frac{1}{2}$

136 Two Sketches (undescribed)

The upper, of a woman looking to left.
The lower of a man, Mr. Arthur Studd, who looks to right (Lent by T. Way, Esq.)

H. 7, W. 3

137 Garden, Rue du Bac, No. 2 (undescribed)

The drawing is made from the garden,
on the right is the lattice-covered doorway in which three figures are standing.
Above, many window shutters are suggested, and to the left a climbing vine, and a window opens on the ground floor. Butterfly signature at the bottom
(Lent by T. Way, Esq.)

H. $8\frac{1}{2}$, W. $6\frac{1}{4}$

138 Two Slight Sketches (undescribed)

CHEVALET PIECES"*

1 The Widow (oil)

Full face of a young woman with dark hair. She wears a dark cloak with lace at the throat. Oval frame. Butterfly signature to right (Lent by the Executors of the late J. Staats Forbes, Esq.)

H. 22, B. 17

2 Nocturne, St. Mark's (oil)

H. 17½, B. 23½

Seascape (oil)

A stretch of sea and shore with figure standing in the water on left, greyish blue clouded sky. Signed "Whistler '65" in right-hand bottom corner (Lent by Alexander Young, Esq.)

H. 19⅝, B. 28½

4 Girl with a Red Feather (oil)

Full face of a young girl, with a red feather in her hair, her costume very slightly indicated. She is placed rather to right of canvas (Lent by the Executors of the late James Staats Forbes, Esq.)

H. 19, B. 11

5 Portrait of Thomas Carlyle (oil)

Full length almost life-size portrait seated in profile to left, against a flat grey wall. To right, behind the sitter, is a dark butterfly within a white circle. To left there are two prints on the wall, and a black dado runs all across the picture. The sitter is in black, with a brown coat over his knees, upon which rests his hat. He holds his cane in his right hand. Whistler is wrongly described on the frame of this picture as belonging to the English School (Lent by the Glasgow Corporation)

H. 67, B. 56

6 Girl in Black (oil)

Half length figure of a young girl in black gown and black cap, with white frill at her throat. Her brown hair is cut straight across her forehead and falls over her shoulders on either side of her face. Probably the last picture Whistler painted (Lent by Monsieur X.)

H. 19, B. 11

7 Symphony in White, No. 3

(oil)

A girl lies upon a sofa her head supported on her right hand, her left arm stretched along the back of the sofa. Her hair is of a beautiful reddish gold; she is dressed in white, the sofa is white, and another girl with the same ruddy-toned hair in which is a comb of gold, also dressed in white, is seated on the floor, and leans against the sofa, her right arm resting on it, her left on her knee. A Japanese fan lies on the floor between the two girls. On the extreme left are flowers in bloom, and flowers also lie on the sofa. The carpet is blue with white pattern. Signed "Symphony in White, No. 3, Whistler, 1867." This is the picture which caused the celebrated difference of opinion between Hamerton and Whistler (Lent by Edmund Davis, Esq.)

H. 19 $\frac{1}{4}$, B. 29

8 The Little Blue Bonnet

(oil)

A golden-haired girl in blue bonnet, with grey feather, looks straight at the spectator. Her dress is grey, trimmed with blue, and she wears lace at her throat. Red Butterfly to left. Oval

(Lent by William Heinemann, Esq.)

H. 23, B. 18

9 Nocturne, Southampton Water (oil)

Vast expanse of water in foreground, on it three boats, one with a light. To right ships, their lights reflected in the water. To the left the moon is rising, cut by a cloud, and further left is the town with more lights reflected (Lent by the Chicago Art Institute)

H. 19, B. 29

10 Portrait of Monsieur Theodore Duret,
Writer on Art (oil)

The first writer in France to recognise the genius of Whistler. Monsieur Duret in full evening dress, faces the spectator. In his left hand he holds his hat, over his right arm is a pink opera cloak, and he holds a fan in his right hand. Butterfly signature, a curious silhouette on right (Lent by Monsieur Theodore Duret)

H. 72, B. 32½ .

11 The Coast of Brittany (oil)

A beach covered with rocks extends to the deep blue sea, beyond and overhead summer sky with floating white clouds. In the left foreground a peasant girl in white cap and kerchief sleeps resting against the rocks. Signature Whistler in lower left hand corner (Lent by Ross Winans, Esq.)

H. 36, B. 46

12 Nocturne in Blue and Silver (oil)

H. 26, B. 19 $\frac{3}{4}$

13 Whistler in his Studio (oil)

This is another version of No. 15 (Lent by Douglas Freshfield, Esq.)

H. 23, B. 17 $\frac{1}{4}$

14 The Fur Jacket (oil)

Full length standing figure of a lady in profile to left, three-quarter face, her left hand on her hip. She wears a brown hat, brown boa round her neck, black jacket trimmed with brown fur, and brown skirt. The floor is brown and the background black. A black butterfly in brown panel to left (Lent by William Burrell, Esq.)

H. 73, B. 34 $\frac{1}{4}$

15 The Artist's Studio

(oil)

Whistler stands in profile to right facing the spectator, dressed in a white suit and holding a palette in his right hand, his left hand is raised. Behind him is a woman with her back to him, in rose-tinted drapery, holding a Japanese fan, and talking to another figure in white dress, seated on a sofa. There is a mirror behind the artist's head and a small print in white mount and gold frame to extreme right (Lent by the City of Dublin Gallery)

H. 23 $\frac{1}{2}$, B. 18

16 Valparaiso, Nocturne

(oil)
